The Eleven O'clock Ordinance.
The ordinance of the city requiring the closing up of saloons at eleven o'clock p. m., has always been considered by the better class of the community as a wholesome and just enactment, and its rigid enforcement has been ardently desired; a large majority of those engaged in the saloon business have willingly obeyed the ordinance, and strictly closed their saloons at and before that hour, yet a few have time and again kept open doors late in the night, while some have paid no attention to the law whatever, and kept open all night, on such occasions as public dances, or other entertainments first compelled people to be out during the night. On several occasions heretofore the city marshal has made his complaint in the proper courts, the parties keeping open saloons in violation of the ordinance have been convicted and fined, their cases have come before the common council, and after a little business talk, the violators of the law have been allowed to continue in the business for the simple fact that heretofore the council did not possess the moral courage to face the question, and the violations of the law have been allowed to go on from night to night. We are of the opinion that the new common council will act differently with this class of offenders, and that while nine out of ten members are on record as favoring the granting of licenses, when the question comes up on revoking a license, after conviction for violating the above ordinance, there will be found ten members in their seats ready to record their votes, instead of a majority purposely absenting themselves to avoid meeting a fair question. The above remarks have been called out by the fact that Marshal Hogan has been compelled to arrest two saloon-keepers for violating the eleven o'clock ordinance, both occurring on Saturday night. They will have a hearing before the municipal court, and if convicted their case will be carried to the council for the purpose of revoking their license, and we mistake the opinion of the aldermen if "any guinea man escapes." It is the commencement of the municipal year, and a good time to commence with the first offender.

The Oldest Dealer in Furniture in Janesville.
The oldest dealer in furniture in Janesville is Mr. W. H. Ashcraft, now located at No. 22 West Milwaukee street, in the Church block, occupying three floors for the display of his stock of the various lines of goods in his trade, the upper or third floor being formerly the large hall used by the Concordia society. The different rooms of the building are stored full of furniture and housekeeping goods usually found in a first class establishment of this kind. Mr. Ashcraft has been in the furniture trade in Janesville for the past twenty-two years, and thoroughly understands the business and the wants of the people, and accordingly fills his establishment with just such goods as the public want in furnishing or refurnishing their homes. He has all kinds of furniture of all grades, some real beauties, good enough for a king, and some cheap enough for the commonest people. Book cases, marble top tables, pier-glasses, bureaus, sofas and lounges in all styles and patterns, he has an extraordinary stock of baby carriages of all grades, and is the sole agent in this city of the celebrated Erie sleeping coach, or baby wagon. The best little vehicle out, which must be seen to be appreciated. He also has the Boyington automatic folding bed on sale—besides many other articles in his line of trade which he is able to dispose of to his customers at special bargains. He keeps constantly on hand a full stock of funeral supplies, such as robes, caskets, coffins, etc., etc. at the lowest prices. In fact he keeps a full stock of everything in the furniture line, and all goods usually found in a first-class furniture store can be procured at No. 22 West Milwaukee street at as low prices as the same goods can be purchased in any other store in the west.

Tobacco Notes.
From the Edgerton Tobacco Reporter.

A large number of tobacco beds have already been made.

J. S. Hudson, of Slaughter, will soon build an addition of eighty feet to his tobacco warehouse.

Albert Tagg and C. M. Gager have completed their business in this market and returned home this week. Both have bought lands in Wisconsin.

Dane county raises the most tobacco in this state. Last year 77,774 acres were planted in this country, but the acreage this year will be from 100,000 to 120,000 less.

The price of seed leaf tobacco has a decidedly upward tendency, says the Countryman. It is almost always the case that this kind of tobacco comes in later demand than the Spanish.

In recent crop reports published it is estimated that the price of tobacco will be decreased, but the acreage of tobacco say there will be a slight increase over the 6232 acres raised last year in Rock county.

Mr. Gas Bunn, of the pioneer firm of Bunn & Dormitzer, who have dealt in this market for years, arrived this week. This is his first trip of the season and he will ride for '82 tobacco with the home agent Henry L. Bardeen.

The Dankirk correspondent to the Oregon Observer says: Tobacco has made a good deal of trouble between the farmers and the buyers in this section, several having to refund to the purchaser the money received at the time of the contract.

Tobacco as a window plant, is recommended by a correspondent of an English journal. It certainly has much to commend it; its broad green leaves, and stately habit, while it flowers, its abundance of bloom would be showy, and about twenty.

Countless sorters are kept busy at the Northwestern warehouse sorting the weed. Most of the tobacco is put in case and stored here, where it will be kept until after it sweats. The average price given per pound is about the same as that given at the other warehouses.

There is nothing in the present condition of the tobacco market to discourage growers. Good tobacco is worth as much now as it has been for the past two years. The difficulty with the crop of 1882 is that it is a very poor condition. This was owing to imperfect growing of the crop and to the unfavorable condition of the atmosphere while the crop was being grown.

Protection from the frost is all that now need be done in the seed beds. Light canvas covering is all that is necessary; and when the plants show green on the bed remove the canvas during the day, and only replace when there is danger of frost, or to keep off the bugs. Watch for fleas for they come with the first peeping of young plants. Do remember; use no pure green or other poison at any time. The flea may be gotten rid of by sifting tobacco scraps over the beds, or by a light sprinkling of wood ashes. The beds must be promptly rid of the pests.

The weak, worn, and dyspeptic should take Golden's Liquid Bessie Thoma's no other.

Milton.
—The cry for houses to rent, continues, and there are none in the village. The demand for building lots is great, but those who own them either ask an exorbitant price or refuse to sell at any figure. Our town cannot be built in this way, and it is high time that capitalists and owners realized this fact. If moneyed men would erect dwellings, and let owners sell land at reasonable values, our village would double in population within two years. There is a boom here, but it can be let by capitalists and real estate owners, and will be if they don't turn over a new leaf.

—The young son of Jared Fuller, of Milton Junction, a boy about ten years of age, was brought before Justice Clarke, Wednesday, charged with breaking into the hardware store of C. Hall, and stealing money and revolvers. He was found guilty and sent to the reform school at Waukesha until he reaches his majority.

—Miss Stevens, who fell from a wagon, doing nicely under Dr. Post's treatment, is doing nicely with Mrs. D. B. Wood, for several weeks, left for Boston Thursday, where she will spend some time, perfecting her musical education. Her many Milton friends wish her health and success.

—Rev. T. R. Williams, of Alfred Centre, N. Y., was in town last week visiting his son and other friends.

—A slight change has been made in the Mineral Point division again. You can now go to Janesville at 10:20 a. m. or 1:20 p. m.

—Orcutt has bought a lot on the south side of Madison avenue, of Mrs. Greenman, and will build a dwelling at once.

—Rev. Dr. Williams occupied the pulpit at the Seven Day Church Sunday evening and preached to a large audience.

—The lakes east of this village are higher than at any time in twenty years.

—The A. D. Hamilton Grand Army Post are organizing for the proper observance of Decoration Day here. Our citizens should make it a point to participate therein. The Post give an entertainment on the evening of that day the proceeds to be devoted to the Post relief fund. Programme next week.

—The Seventh-day Baptists are going to send a female missionary to China, Dr. Ella F. Swinney, of West Virginia. She will preach her religion and do missionary work for the denomination.

—The concert band are preparing some fine music for the class of '83."

—The Mineral Point passenger train now stops for dinner at the Burden house.

—Subscriptions for the Gazette can be renewed with W. W. Clarke at the post-office.

—If you want a good trunk at a low price call on W. W. Clarke.

—C. L. Clarke and wife, of Geneva, visited Milton relatives this week.

—Mr. Warfield, who has been visiting Milton relatives for a few days, returned to Illinois home on Monday.

—There is altogether too much wetness in this part of the union.
